Balancing the Scales

The first three scales are balanced by using a combination of three-dimensional shapes—spheres, cubes, cylinders, and cones. The fourth poses a problem: Which solids do we have to put in the empty pan so that the scale will be in balance?